

THURSDAY EVENING, NOV. 9, 1905.

MR. BASCOM SLEMP has not fulfilled the expectations of his admirers. He failed to prove himself an Achilles in his fight for Judge Lewis, whom the republican party in Virginia set up for gubernatorial honors. The former chairman of the committee, Mr. Park Agnew, could certainly have done as well and, many believe, much better. The free school book issue, the elimination of the negro from politics in the Old Dominion and with the aggressive Mr. Slemp handling the ribbons, failed to appeal to the democratic voters. About an average number of Virginians voted the republican ticket. A change of leaders often fails to fulfill expectations, and Mr. Slemp's report of his stewardship is a disappointment to the administration which strangely imagined he could make a breach in the democratic bulwarks of Virginia. President Roosevelt had listened to avaricious office-seekers who suggested the introduction of new blood into the party, and Mr. Agnew was given to understand that a man of more gladiatorial instincts was needed to lead the party. He was later notified that his successor as Collector of Internal Revenue had been selected from another section of the State. Much had been expected of Messrs. Slemp, Summers & Co., but the fruits of their labors fall behind those of their predecessor. The President would have acted wisely had he let well-enough alone. There is more likelihood now of the democrats making breeches in the breastworks of the Ninth district than for the present republican leaders to change conditions in other portions of the State. Senator Martin stated the case correctly at the Opera House last Friday night. Mr. Agnew, he said, was too honest to be a prominent factor in the party. He is non-partisan and popular with democrats and republicans alike. He lacks the bombastic aggressiveness so often manifest in political leaders who would ride rough-shod over all who refuse to get in their moulds. There is nothing in the present leaders which will appeal to people. Most of them are ensconced in lucrative positions, and so long, at least, as they remain in the same they will worship the powers that be.

THE VOTE Mr. W. R. Hearst, candidate for Mayor of New York, received in that city last Tuesday, bodes no good. About 300,000 men cast their votes for a man who has been endeavoring to ride all sorts of hobbies in order to add power to his ducats. There have been pronounced cases of red republicanism in the camp of his supporters, and during the campaign their emblem was flaunted defiantly in the streets of the metropolis. He is now engaged in a legal contest for Mayor McClellan's position, and, strange to say, some of the most prominent jurists in the country have tendered their services to him. There is nothing in Mr. Hearst personally that can appeal to any one. He has inherited riches—that is all. Had he been born in the humble walks of life he would have been a cipher. He entered life with the traditional silver spoon in his mouth and now thirsts for power, and is ready to amalgamate all the disorderly and thoughtless elements in the great city of New York in order to be carried by such a wave toward his goal. He can bring about no substantial improvement on the present order of things, as his platform is akin to Mahomet's sensual paradise. It is earnestly hoped by all lovers of law and order that the chief city in the country is not to be presided over by a Mayor who has appealed to the discontented masses, embracing socialists, nihilists, red republicans and anarchists, to place him in position. Possessing as he does millions, he can, at least, have no fellowship with such political supporters, and his term of office would be one of deceit or flagrant hypocrisy. At the same time his inability to satisfy his followers would add to their discontent and in all probability bring on troubles similar to those now disgracing other countries.

JUDGE LEWIS, the republican nominee for Governor, has been more badly beaten than even the most sanguine democrats anticipated. In the Ninth district, where the republicans were considered strong, and out of which Judge Lewis was expected to come with a big majority, showed a considerable slump to the democratic side. The boast of the Slemps, who control the republican machinery, that they would carry the State was not maintained. The Slemps are said to have been chosen for the work by President Roosevelt. The President has evidently mistaken his men.

THE PROPER place to find out the true standing of a man is at his home and among his neighbors. The home of Mr. Swanson, the democratic nominee for Governor, is in Pittsylvania county. On Tuesday, in the election in Danville, the city in that county, Mr. Swanson received over 800 votes, while Judge Lewis received but 85, and in the entire county Mr. Swanson received four votes for every one cast for his opponent. Culpeper county, Judge Lewis's home, gave him but 536 votes to Mr. Swanson's 1,962.

SENATOR RAYNOB, of Maryland, now knows what it is to turn against his party. He opposed the Poe amendment to the State constitution to curry favor with the republicans and "independents." These same people turned against his son, who was a candidate on the democratic ticket for the House of Delegates, and elected his republican opponent. Chickens come home to roost.

MR. SWANSON, the brilliant young Congressman from the Fifth district, who was elected by the vote of the people Tuesday to be the next Governor of Virginia, has attained the height of his laudible ambition which he has cherished for many years. He has made an excellent Congressman and his friends predict that he will make equally as good a Governor. Let all hope so.

From Washington.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 9.

It is learned today that the Department of Justice has decided to proceed with the prosecution of the beef trust, notwithstanding the plea of immunity raised by the packers. A conference on the subject was held in the office of the Attorney General this morning at which were present District Attorney Morrison, of Chicago, and his assistant in the beef trust prosecutions, O. E. Pagnin, Commissioner of Corporations Garfield of the Department of Commerce and Labor was also present. The only official announcement thus far made regarding the conference is that Morrison and Pagnin came here to discuss certain matters connected with the beef trust prosecution. It is learned, however, that the subject under discussion bore directly upon the recent plea of the packers. It is said that, acting under the authority given him by Congress, Mr. Garfield did extend immunity to certain subordinate employees of the beef trust. This was not intended to include the packing house concerns themselves. A direct issue having been raised by the packers, it is now essential for the Department of Justice, before it presses the matter further, to determine the exact scope of the alleged immunity. If the packers can establish that general immunity was granted to them, the government's case will likely fall. In the opinion of the Attorney General, however, this is a matter for the courts to determine.

The Civil Service Commission has adopted President Roosevelt's plan for the centralization of news. An order has gone into effect at the offices of the commission, whereby hereafter only the president of the commission, Gen. Black, will have authority to give out news of the affairs of the civil service. All subordinate officials and employees of the commission have been instructed to refer newspaper correspondents seeking information to Gen. Black, the intimation being conveyed that violation of the order will mean dismissal.

President Roosevelt received the report this morning of the law commission appointed from the State, and Commerce and Labor Departments and the Department of Justice to formulate a naturalization bill for presentation to Congress. The present naturalization laws are deemed inadequate to prevent fraud. The commission visited the White House and had a long talk with the President, going over the various features of the bill very thoroughly. The President expressed himself as much pleased with the measure as prepared and assured the commission that it would have the administration's support.

About 100 delegates attended this afternoon the annual meeting of the American Association of Farmers' Institute Workers. Secretary of Agriculture Wilson made the address of welcome. The workers will discuss such subjects as consolidated schools, co-operation with educational agencies and the Agricultural Department and Institute organization and methods.

Signor Biondi, the sculptor of the group entitled "Saturnalia" which was refused exhibition in the New York Metropolitan Museum of Art, has written a letter to Secretary of State Root appealing to him to act as a special committee of one to examine his work and pass judgment upon the justice of the dispute which arose from the exclusion of the sculpture of the Museum. Secretary Root has replied that he is still a trustee of the Museum and special committee and that it would therefore be impossible for him to accept Signor Biondi's invitation.

Among the statistical figures worked up by the State Census Bureau it is shown that there are in South Dakota 53,150 unmarried men and 24,881 unmarried women over the age of 18 years.

H. F. Neighbors, of New York, who was Elihu Root's private secretary in New York, has been appointed confidential secretary to the Secretary of State.

has entered the list of the world's rice producing and exporting countries. Figures compiled by its bureau of statistics show that the exports of rice to Cuba alone in the past fiscal year amounted to 24,000,000 pounds. At present 7,000 in the preceding year. The total value of rice of domestic production shipped to other countries in the fiscal year 1905 was $5,361,441. Formerly rice was grown only in the coast counties of the Carolinas, Georgia and the Mississippi delta. It is due to the efforts of the Agriculture Department that the industry has spread to the prairie lands of Louisiana and Texas. At present the United States ranks fourth in the list of rice producing countries of the world.

Consul Liefeld, of Freiburg, Germany, sends to the Department of Commerce and Labor statistics which shows that the ratio of the income is increasing rapidly in England and Wales. A commission for the feeble minded of England was received yesterday by President Roosevelt. The members are making a study of treatment in this country. The polo saddle will soon take its place among the accoutrements furnished by the government to its soldiers.

Revolutionary sentiment is gaining ground in China.

Austria is in the throes of an immense strike, 10,000 railroad men being out and the coal supply cut off.

King Edward distributed his annual birthday quota of titles and honors, his eldest daughter, the Duchess of Fife, heading the list.

Alfred A. Buck, formerly assistant cashier of the Mapleton State Bank, Minnesota, yesterday pleaded guilty to embezzlement and was sentenced to six years in prison.

Count Witte is endeavoring to win the zemstvo constitutionalist party over to his reform programme. Quiet is being re-established in the Russian empire, save in the Caucasus, where anarchy still reigns. Reports of massacre horrors continue to drift in.

In the testimony of John R. Hege-man, president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, before the insurance investigating committee, upon the resumption of the insurance investigation in New York yesterday, it was brought out that industrial insurance was considerably more expensive than other forms of life insurance.

Gen. G. H. Burton, inspector general, makes a number of important recommendations in his annual report upon the conditions of the army. He criticizes severely the absenteeism of captains from their commands, and says that out of 398 companies and troops from whom information was obtained 155 captains were absent, which, General Burton says, injures the discipline of the army.

Edward Thaw, of Pittsburgh, has been divorced by his wife, Frieda March Thorpe. It was Edward Thaw who declared, when his sister married the Earl of Yarmouth, that he had rather she had married a man than a title. Mrs. Frieda March Thaw is just fitting up a beautiful apartment in Euclid Hall, New York, where she will make her home with her little son, Lawrence. "I obtained a decree against Mr. Thaw on statutory grounds a week ago," said Mrs. Thaw in New York yesterday.

Bishop Coadjutor.

A called meeting of the Episcopal council of the diocese of Southern Virginia was in executive session most of yesterday in St. Paul's Church, Lynchburg. Bishop Randolph presiding, to elect a bishop coadjutor, to assist him in his work. There were sixty clerical and seventy lay delegates present. The salary of the new officer was fixed at $3,000, with rental of residence and traveling expenses and the stipulation that he is to reside at a point not east of Lynchburg. Bishop Randolph proposed that the bishop coadjutor be assigned all that portion of the diocese lying west of and including the counties of Augusta, Rockbridge, Botetourt, Bedford, Franklin and Henry, the supervision of the colored churches in Mecklenburg, Lunenburg, and Northampton counties, stipulating, however, that there was to be co-operation of appointment and an exchange of appointments.

Those in nomination were Rev. Braxton Bryan, of Petersburg; Rev. Beverly Dandridge Tucker, of Norfolk; Rev. Arthur S. Lloyd, of New York; Rev. Berryman Greene, of the Theological Seminary at Alexandria; Rev. James Watson Morris, of Leesburg; Rev. W. H. Milton, of Roanoke; Rev. John K. Mason, of Louisville, Ky., and Rev. William Meade Dame, of Memorial Church, Baltimore.

In the morning the bishop and council consecrated St. Paul's Church, which was erected ten years ago at a cost of $80,000, but has been in debt ever since until this year, when the congregation freed it from all incumbrances.

A dispatch received at this office today says that Rev. Arthur S. Lloyd was chosen Coadjutor Bishop.

This is the third time Rev. Mr. Lloyd has been elected to the bishopric having been chosen Bishop of Kentucky and Mississippi, but each time declined the position. He was also elected to the chair of history at the Theological Seminary, which position he also declined. He is now secretary of the Foreign Board of Missions and has been stationed in New York for several years past. He is well known in this city where he spent his early days. He is a son of the late John J. Lloyd, of Alexandria, and a brother of Mrs. George Uhler, of this city.

The Fox Hunters.

The fourth day's trial of the Grafton Middlesex hounds for the $1,000 a side in the Piedmont Valley to capture Reynard's brush furnished good sport for thirty-five minutes yesterday. The hounds, however, only succeeded in running the fox to earth within a short distance of where he was gotten up.

The English hounds showed greater speed than on any previous day, and with hunting conditions almost perfect the fox was given a close run for his life. Several of the field fell during the run, but the only serious fall that occurred was that which befell Mrs. Tom Peirce, of Boston. Her hunter, the Champion, in jumping a stone wall, overreached himself, cut his tendons, and gave Mrs. Peirce a bad crop. She fell on a pile of stone and knocked out one of her front teeth. Her horse was badly injured. He was never hurt again. Mrs. Peirce very gamely mounted a green horse and continued the run, which ended at Bald Hill woods, where the fox had first been gotten up. The meet today was at Zula, on the road to The Plains, where the Grafton hounds were hunted for the fourth time.

In Tuesday's election many persons scratched only Lewis, unintentionally leaving the names of two candidates on the ticket and thus invalidating the ballot. But for this confusion, Swanson's majority would have been much greater than that given him.

Representatives of the University of Virginia and the Medical College of Virginia, in conference in Richmond, Tuesday night, appointed a sub-committee to draft a plan whereby the medical department of the university and the medical college can be consolidated. A further conference will be held at a near date to be arranged at the university.

The Board of Visitors of the Virginia Military Institute met in Lexington today to investigate the complaints of cadets with reference to food conditions. The third class, which presented a paper to General Shipp, threatening to leave the school unless a promise of improved conditions was given them, have declined to withdraw the paper, but have declined to apologize. They think this is apologetic enough, but Gen. Shipp does not, and the trouble is hardly over.

Sargeant, of Gordonsville, and to Linwood Ruffner, of Meets, Fauquier county, and Gusie Ford, of Swanton, Fairfax county.

Mr. Slemp's Defeat.

The Washington correspondent of the Richmond Journal says: Democrats in Washington are jubilant over the defeat administered to the republican ticket in Virginia. The majority was unexpectedly large to them.

They regard it as the last link in the discrediting of the Slemp leadership. Republicans take a similar view of it. They say that Slemp has not done as well as Park Agnew did four years ago. It will probably change the patronage question in Virginia.

Secretary Shaw was rather shocked when he heard how badly the Slemp leadership had lost out. When he learned the real result this morning it was with consideration chagrin. Not only had the Slemps lost, but his own speechmaking tour had not shown up as he expected it would.

Speaking of the result an Agnew-Bowden republican said that it was no surprise to him. "They have asserted that Mr. Agnew did not try to roll up a good majority, and that he cared only for the political fortunes of a coterie of friends and himself. They have had a trial now, and it shows distinctly to their disadvantage."

"It gives the administration a basis upon which to compare the leadership of Agnew and that of the Slemps. We voted the ticket and worked for it but it met with severe defeat. If there had been any measure of victory the Slemps would have claimed credit for it. Now they must take the responsibility for defeat."

Virginia Weddings.

Miss Henrietta E. Grant, daughter of Mrs. H. F. Grant, of the University of Virginia, and Dr. Burnley Lankford, of Norfolk, were married last night in the university chapel, the ceremony being performed by Rev. R. K. Massie, for many years the pastor of the bride, and now professor at the Theological Seminary, assisted by Rev. H. B. Lee, rector of Christ Church, Charlottesville.

In the Presbyterian Church at Winchester yesterday afternoon Miss Elizabeth Faulkner Love, youngest daughter of Dr. and Mrs. William S. Love, became the bride of Dr. Samuel Peachy Latane, Rev. Dr. James R. Graham, pastor emeritus, and Rev. Dr. J. Horace Lacy, the pastor, officiating.

Mr. Robert W. Higdon, son of Mr. James L. Higdon, and Miss Mattie E. Potter, daughter of Mr. Nelson Potter, were married at Herndon yesterday by Rev. J. E. Bailey.

Letter to F. M. McFarley.

Alexandria, Va.
Dear Sir: You buy your horseshoes and nails; your grandfather, if he was a blacksmith, made 'em. You can't afford to have them put on by hand, when you can buy 'em good, or better perhaps, ready made to your hand, for a little more than the cost of the iron.

What do you think of a painter who goes on buying his linseed oil and whited lead, and mixing, and tinting by hand, and charging his time for work that is far better done than he can do it, by machinery, done as your horseshoes and nails are made.

Mistake isn't it? He is wasting his chance in the world. There is no better stuff to do business with than good horseshoes and paint; and no better work than putting them on. Good horseshoes will put on: It's the putting 'em on that makes you a blacksmith; no matter who makes 'em.

Who wants to go back to old times, and make his own horseshoes?

Between us two, that painter don't know how to make good paint—he used to; but paint has run away from him.

Yours truly,
F. W. DRYCE & Co.

The Elections.

Later returns from Tuesday's elections show no material changes in the results as published in yesterday's Gazette, save to make a better showing for the democratic party even than that heretofore given. In Maryland Comptroller Atkinson, democrat, was elected by 6,510 majority and the suffrage amendment was defeated by 28,650. The Legislature is democratic, as follows: Senate—democrats, 18; republicans, 8; fusion democrats, 1. House of Delegates—democrats, 58; republicans, 45; independents, 3; total membership, 101; majority, 51.

Pattison, democrat, has been elected governor of Ohio. The democrats claim a majority of 55,000, while the republicans concede 25,000. The democrats will also have a majority in both houses of the legislature, but no U. S. Senator is elected by this legislature.

The union labor party overwhelmed the democratic-republican fusion in San Francisco and elected the mayor and city clerk complete.

The republicans made a clean sweep in the sanitary district and judicial elections in Chicago. Democratic enemies of Judge Dunn gave him a setback. With the granting of an order by Supreme Court Justice William J. Gaynor in Brooklyn last night, compelling Police Commissioner McAdoo to remove every ballot box from all over the precincts in greater New York to the bureau of elections, William R. Hearst, the defeated municipal ownership league candidate, took his first legal step in a fight to secure a recount of the votes cast on election day.

Pennsylvania which one year ago gave President Roosevelt the unprecedented plurality of a half-million, declared emphatically for the election of an honest democrat, to put an end to the blighting graft system.

Though the candidacy of Berry, State treasurer, hampered by machine-devised complications in the ballot, it is estimated that between 250,000 and 300,000 independent republicans found a way to vote for him and he was elected by about 100,000 majority.

VIRGINIA.

Further official and unofficial returns from Tuesday's election give Mr. Swanson a majority of 34,036 over Judge Lewis for Governor.

The political complexion of the Legislature will not be materially changed as a result of the election, though it looks as if the opposition strength has been reduced. The republicans will probably have seventeen members on joint ballot as against twenty in the last body. They made a gain of only one vote in the Senate giving them six instead of five in the upper branch. They had three "holdovers," Messrs. Grier, Turner and Noel, and two of the other seats they held, and which were filled on Tuesday, were retained by them, while they gained one. This was the Bristol district, formerly represented by Hon. J. Cloyd Ryars.

Of the one hundred members of the last House there were fifteen republicans and one independent. The republicans have elected nine, and probably eleven, members of the lower branch. They may possibly get thirteen as a result of later returns, but even then their strength will be only nineteen, instead of twenty in the last assembly. With nine members certain they will probably get Carroll and Floyd, still unreported. Pulaski, Patrick, Franklin and Henry are in doubt. In Pulaski there is a possibility of republican victory, but in the other three chances favor the democrats.

There was a good deal of switching around in various counties not to have more materially altered general results. The democrats captured the following districts represented in the last House by republicans: Montgomery and Radford, one member from Rockingham, Stafford and King George and two members from Washington and city of Bristol. The democrats also carried Spotsylvania and Fredericksburg, which was represented in the last House by an independent. The republicans reversed conditions in Wythe, and perhaps several other counties.

The fight made by the rejuvenated, regenerated and somewhat contrite republican party turned out to be a miserable fiasco, which must be mortifying in the extreme to them.

It seems that only one congressional district was carried by the republicans, and that instead of gaining ground much territory was lost. This was particularly noticeable in the matter of the legislative fights, which in some cases turned out to be surprising victories for the democrats.

In nearly every doubtful county the democrats won, and in several instances they prevailed at the polls when their case seemed almost hopeless.

While all, of course, expected a defeat for the republicans, no one anticipated such a Waterloo as that of yesterday, and it is almost inexplicable.

Judge Lewis's candidacy assuredly has lent no strength to his party, while the returns from every section indicate that the negroes are completely alienated, or are cunningly hiding their time until they can dictate their own terms.

Some of the most notable democratic victories were in the Ninth district legislative fights, as both Montgomery and Pulaski were reclaimed, while most satisfactory results were likewise achieved in Spotsylvania and Fredericksburg, in Greensville and Sussex, and in Patrick, Nelson and Henry counties.

Today's Telegraphic News

Bishop Lloyd.

[Special Dispatch to the Alexandria Gazette.]
Lynchburg, Va., Nov. 9.—The session lasted almost continuously from 9 o'clock this morning, the council of the diocese of Southern Virginia, of the Episcopal Church, today elected Rev. Dr. Arthur S. Lloyd, of New York City, Bishop coadjutor for the diocese.

Mr. Hearst's Contest.

New York, Nov. 9.—The contest of W. R. Hearst for the mayorship is well under way today and interesting and important developments are forecast. The Board of Elections, both in Manhattan and Brooklyn, had their hands full this morning receiving the ballot boxes used in Tuesday's election from the police. The ballot boxes were turned over on a midnight order of Supreme Court Justice Gaynor, who said significantly when he signed the order: "The police have nothing whatever to do with the ballot boxes, and it is most astounding that they should have possession of them. They have no right to even touch them." The order, which was asked for by Col. Alexander S. Bacon, one of counsel for Mr. Hearst, required the immediate delivery of the boxes containing the ballots and allowed until noon today for the delivery to the county clerk of the envelope containing all void and protested ballots and tally sheets. The fight by Mr. Hearst will be waged to the bitter end. He has engaged able and eminent counsel, including Colonel Alexander S. Bacon, who prosecuted John Y. McKane, and sent him to Sing Sing, for election frauds; Judge Stecker, Judge Julius S. Cohen, Charles H. Hyde, and Day and Lord. If the affidavits submitted by Hearst and Jerome watchers are substantiated there will be many criminal prosecutions. The Hearst people have over 600 affidavits as to fraud and more will be taken today, when several warrants for arrest will be applied for. William Ivins, republican nominee for Mayor, has offered his services to Mr. Hearst as counsel. Clarence Shearn, counsel for Mr. Hearst, offered Mr. Ivins a retainer, which he declined to accept. Scores of telegrams were sent to Mr. Hearst, yesterday, urging that he fight the case. Wayne MacVeagh, former Attorney General of the United States, and chief legal advisor to Mayor Weaver of Philadelphia, in the reform movement in that city, telegraphed a message of support. Mr. Ivins, the republican candidate for mayor, says he thinks that Hearst was elected. He said, "Tammany had, at its command not less than a million dollars and I believe that every purchasable vote was purchased."

The Election in Ohio

Columbus, O., Nov. 9.—The Ohio political struggle has now resolved itself into a fight for the minor State offices and the Senate. Democratic Chairman Garber claims that Pattison's plurality will exceed 40,000. Republican Chairman Dick concedes defeat by these figures. Garber also claims the House, Senate, and all State officials. Dick concedes the House, but says he hopes to save the Senate to the republicans, and also to elect some if not all the republican candidates for minor State offices. Garber claims 80 members of the House and 21 members of the Senate.

London's New Lord Mayor.

London, Nov. 9.—Walter Vaughan Morgan, was sworn in as Lord Mayor today. The old pageant, known as the Lord Mayor's Show, was given. The day was cold and foggy. The usual tawdry procession, led by bands, marched to the Law Courts, where a new Lord Mayor and Sheriff were sworn. Big crowds were out to witness the show, but many of the newspapers demand a cessation of this ceremony.

Daring Train Robbery.

Corry, Pa., Nov. 9.—A daring car robbery was perpetrated on the Pennsylvania Railroad between Buffalo and this city early today. Lisbon, Nov. 9.—Queen Amelia had a narrow escape from injury or death today. A horse she was riding slipped, then reared and finally fell on the queen, who was badly bruised, but had no bones broken. Though in great pain, the queen pluckily mounted another horse and galloped to the palace.

Assailant Identified.

Atlantic, Ga., Nov. 9.—Jim Walker, a negro, this morning was positively identified by Mrs. Alice Moore, white, as the brute who assaulted her several weeks ago. A mob headed by Cliff Moore, the woman's son, intercepted the officers while they were returning to jail with the negro on Peachtree Road, a fashionable thoroughfare of this city, and attacked the officers and tried to get the negro. Moore knocked down the assailant of his mother and efforts were made to get the negro from the officers for lynching. G. W. Moore, husband of the assaulted woman, dragged his son off and asked for a fair trial. The sheriff in charge of the prisoner promised to hang the negro when convicted.

Terrible Atrocities on Missionaries.

London, Nov. 9.—Hong Kong advices received here today state that terrible atrocities were committed on the American women missionaries recently assassinated at Lienchow. Mr. Machie, whose wife and daughter were among the victims, brings the following details. He states that the women were stripped naked and exposed to public view in the Chinese temple. Finally, while still alive, they were thrown into the river where Chinamen speared them with tridents. Mr. Machie, who was slaughtered, was also stripped and clubbed to death in the presence of his wife. Later she met the same fate as Miss Chester. Mrs. Machie and her daughter had suffered.
